Operations

We have been experiencing an ongoing issue with our newspaper delivery for the past month. The delivery issue has been escalated, and we expect the issue to be resolved soon. We are receiving credits for the missed papers. One of our regular patrons has been generous enough to donate his own copy of the New York Times when ours is missed.

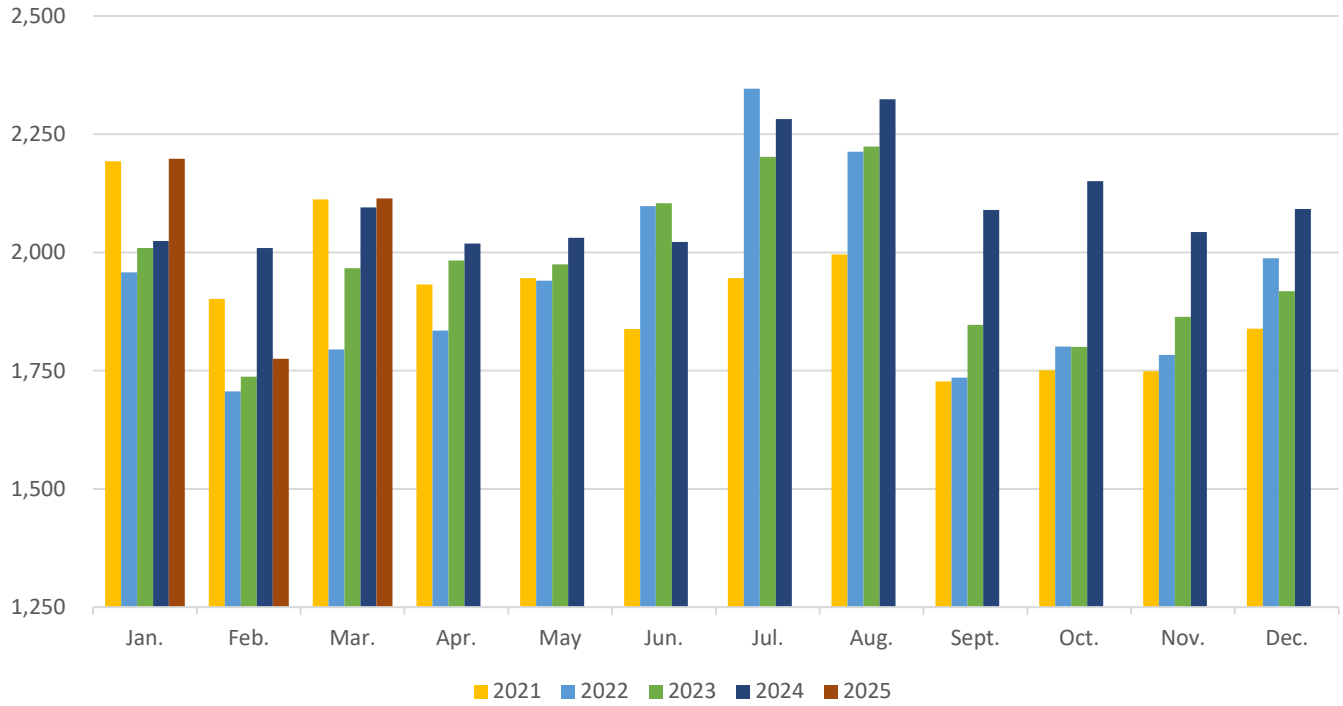

Circulation

In March 2025, circulation of physical materials was 4,228, and circulation of e-materials was 2,114.

Youth Programs

During Tredyffrin/Easttown School District's spring break, teens were able to enjoy four different art workshops taught by local professional artists!

First on the list, the teens enjoyed an afternoon of needle felting with Jae Kazmar, a local fiber artist from Reading, Pennsylvania, who also is a product designer for Dimensions crafting company.

The next day, teens came back for more! This time they were able to express themselves through an amazing zine workshop by published zine author, Katie Allen, from Philadelphia. Students really took creative liberties with their zines, making ones as wild as "How to Drink Water."

Midweek brought a collage workshop led by poet and artist Robin Gow. Teens filled their pages with cut-outs, poems, and layered textures, creating personal pieces that were both quirky and thoughtful. One participant even made a collage entirely from vintage gardening magazines!

Big Teen Art Week wrapped up with a photography and film workshop hosted by multimedia artist Dan Barends. Teens experimented with cameras, light, and storytelling techniques, capturing everything from posed portraits to moody short films.

Paoli Library was buzzing all week with creativity, laughter, and the joyful mess that comes from making art together. Teens left inspired, proud of their work, and already asking when the next Big Teen Art Week will be.

Adult Programs

In March, we hosted a SEPTA Senior Fare Card Sign-Up with Representative Shusterman's office, and it was a hit! Adults also unleashed their inner creativity by drawing mandalas and sculpting beautiful decorations from air-dry clay. The jigsaw puzzle exchange continues to draw dozens of attendees, while newer programs such as Cook & Connect are drawing more and more participants each month!
